Related Post The latest 1.1 version is available for download, has been tested and works fine. PVR Plus 1.0 is a family TV recording for your PC, a digital recorder and a player that allows you to upload your TV recordings to the Internet and other receivers. It's a complete TV recorder that is easy to use and at the same time has a lot of features that simplify your work. PVR Plus 1.0 has the following functions: Recorder and player. It allows you to record DVB, ATSC, DAB and DVB-T TV channels on internal and external hard disks. The application displays and controls the TV channels and programs, allowing you to view and select channels that you want to record, pause, record or cancel a recorded program, review the recordings, set the channel, DVD menu, subtitles and audio and set the desired recording quality. It also allows you to add the TV shows and movies recorded by the application, as well as the registered parental control. With PVR Plus 1.0 you can register the places and dates in which you will record the TV program and you can select the date and time, the number of views, the TV program time and the channels to record. It allows you to choose between continuous and repeated recordings of a TV program. You can also repeat a recording if you change your mind. It enables you to save the recordings, its quality and what channels it is recorded to your hard disk. In addition, it allows you to play the TV program that you recorded, stop and pause the recording, and return to the menu. You can also add comments to the recordings and create favorites. Moreover, you can capture snapshots and insert images into the TV programs. With PVR Plus 1.0 you can play the content in the TV programs that you registered to record. You can enable parental control to stop the children from viewing or allowing them to listen to programs or games that you have registered on your TV recorder. The application allows you to call the registered phone numbers to call recorded TV programs or to enable the children to call you. Additionally, the application allows you to set the program information to the TV receivers, as well as to assign the TV program to the calendar and the contacts.
