Numerous studies have reported differences in the fatty acid composition of total lipid extracts from erythrocytes from schizophrenic patients compared with controls. The results of these studies are somewhat contradictory. In the present investigation differences in fatty acid composition of erythrocyte total lipids and plasma phospholipids were studied in 34 patients with schizophrenia and in 28 age-matched controls. Erythrocyte total lipids from the schizophrenic patients had significantly lower levels of arachidonic acid, dihomo-gamma-linolenic acid and eicosapentaenoic acid than in the control group. The levels of linoleic acid in the erythrocyte total lipids were significantly higher than in the control group. The concentrations of phospholipids (PL) (PS and PE) and sphingomyelin (SM) were significantly lower in the erythrocytes from the schizophrenic patients than in the control group. It is suggested that the low levels of arachidonic acid (AA), eicosapentaenoic acid (EPA), dihomo-gamma-linolenic acid (DGLA) and elevated levels of linoleic acid (LA) are involved in the pathogenesis of schizophrenia. A woman was shot to death Sunday night in Northeast D.C. by a neighbor she has accused of stalking her. The woman, whose name has not been released, was fatally shot on the 1400 block of Frilly Lane NE at about 9:45 p.m. by a neighbor whom police believe was acting in self-defense, police said. The woman had been sitting in her vehicle in the driveway when a man walked over and pointed a gun at her, police said. He then pulled the trigger, but the gun failed to fire, police said. The gunman then fled in a gray car driven by a man. The woman ran from the house to her car and the two drove away, police said. Police believe the woman's fiancé, who lives nearby, saw the shooting and chased the attacker and the man in the gray car. He called police, who arrested the man. Neighbors said they had called police about the woman's stalker repeatedly. "I feel sorry for the guy," neighbor Bill Wynn said.
